BEASLEY ALLEN SPONSORS EXTREME MAKEOVER: HOME EDITION IN MONTGOMERY

13 February, 2009

Community outreach project continues firm's mission of 'helping those who need it most' by building a home for a deserving Montgomery family.

MONTGOMERY, ALA. (February 13, 2009) – Beasley Allen is excited to announce it will join the Emmy award-winning television show Extreme Makeover: Home Edition, to help to help a family in Montgomery, Alabama.

It was announced last week that five local finalists, deemed “Heroes at Home,” had been chosen from our community, one of which will receive a brand new home. A team of builders from Aronov Homes, along with hundreds of volunteers, will work around the clock for one week to make the dream of a new home a reality for a deserving family.

The family chosen for the program will be announced Monday, February 16th.

Beasley Allen has set up a blog for this special event: www.extrememontgomery.com to encourage community involvement and allow everyone the opportunity to share stories of how this event touched their lives.

“Beasley Allen is grateful to have been asked to participate. We try not only to help those people who come to us, but to reach out into the community when we see a need. We realize that this is a team effort and are encouraging both our employees and the community to get involved in any way they can,” says Tom Methvin, managing partner.

Each year the firm participates in a wide variety of community outreach efforts, including work with the March of Dimes, the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, Brantwood Children’s Home, Father Walter’s Children’s Home, the Family Sunshine Center and more. Our philosophy of “helping those that need it most” extends throughout the firm, and shapes the way our attorneys and employees approach both their work and their role in the community.
